The author has analysed the situation in Russia in post-Soviet times against the new liberal principles, gained an insight into the mechanisms underlying the new liberal ideology and worked out the consequences which might ensue should these new liberal mechanisms find their way into Russian economy, policy, social field and spiritual life. The new liberal ideology in Russia can't provide Russia's development as a blooming powerful sovereign State, but helps to bring about decay and degradation. Profound understanding of the Russian values and way of life enables the author to call for the common Russian Russia-centred, Russia based and Russia inspired State ideology and give a solid prove of its being absolutely essential.

Keywords: State ideology, neo-liberalism, global neo-colonialism, Protestantism, Enlightenment.
