
Features of using audio and video courses by teaching the Russian language to foreign students of the preparatory department

© N.A. Ionova

Bauman Moscow State Technical University, Moscow, 105005, Russia

A classified approach to teaching foreign students the Russian language by using audio and video materials, which is essential for diversified and free language proficiency, is introduced in this article.

Keywords: audio and video materials, microdialogues, monological part, culturological aspect, multimedia teaching complexes, unadapted materials.

Ionova N.A., Senior Teacher of the Russian Language Department of Bauman State Technical University. Author of several methodological articles in the field of methods of teaching the Russian language as the foreign one. e-mail: chirisha1@yandex.ru
