Information Security in Politics

Bauman Moscow State Technical University, Moscow, 105005, Russia

The article reflects the role of Information technologies and Information security in modern politics. The author reveals the significance of Internet and cyber mass media during information-psychology wars by the example of the Arab Spring, as well as the author stresses the defencelessness of Russian Federation in the face of complex offensive operations of geopolitical adversaries.

Laminina O.G., Ph. D., Assoc. Professor of the Political Science Department of Bauman Moscow State Technical University. e-mail: lamro02@gmail.com